FOUNDER CHAIRMAN

In February 2006, with just 11 employees and 200 thousand rupees. He was then twenty-five years old and armed only with confidence, charm, and charisma. The one thing he possessed in abundance, however, was ambition. As he said, "For any growth to take place, there must be ambition. Without that desire, that drive, that obsession, you can do nothing."

Unfettered by convention, Maqsood Ali could discern opportunity where others saw difficulty. His spirit of enterprise and working innovatively around obstacles was the hallmark of many of his ventures. This, combined with his great capacity for hard work, was the formula for his many business successes. It was he who pioneered water cooler manufacturing in Pakistan, making Maqsood & Sons synonymous with water cooler and laying the foundation for it to become a manufacturing company.

A large-hearted man who loved life with a passion, Maqsood Ali was a natural leader, inspiring great devotion in his staff to both himself and the Company. The work culture that he established in Maqsood & Sons was imbued with professionalism, a commitment to quality and customer satisfaction, a sense of corporate social responsibility, and consideration for employees – long before they became fashionable buzzwords.
